

Statement from the Retail Industry Leaders Association (RILA.org)

“As we approach the third anniversary of the enactment of the flawed healthcare law, it has become increasingly apparent that provisions such as automatic enrollment will be administratively burdensome and complex for retail employers to comply with and the federal government to implement,” said Christine Pollack, Vice President of Government Affairs for the Retail Industry Leaders Association (RILA). "RILA applauds Congressmen Hudson and Pittenger for introducing the Auto Enroll Repeal Act and recognizing the need to provide well-intentioned employers, who offer health coverage to their employees and families, with relief under the ACA requirements."
